Be Internet Sharp

Your online reputation is anything that appears about you on the internet.

How could someone create a positive digital footprint for themselves in order to help protect their online reputation?

- Don't post embarrassing photos or videos online
- Don't write unkind or hurtful comments
- Be kind to others
- Check privacy settings

Being internet sharp is about knowing what kind of information to put online to create a positive digital footprint.

Invent a character around your age.
Draw your character in your book.
Around the outside write their personal information (not real information for you or anyone you know but made up information for your character)

Now put a smiley face next to the things that is ok to share on the internet and a sad face next to the things you should not share.

- Name
- Nickname
- Favourite food
- Favourite colour
- Name of teddies
- Number of siblings
- School they go to
